4. Attach a copy of your abstract, paper, poster and other supporting documentation.
5. Save and forward, via email, the processing form and all supporting documentation to your unit commander, program director or immediate supervisor for review/approval.
6. On page 2, have either your unit commander, program director or immediate supervisor:
 - a. Print their name, rank/grade, title, sign and date the form in the approving authority's signature block or use an electronic signature.
7. Submit your completed form and all supporting documentation to the CRD for processing (59crdpubspres@us.af.mil). If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the 59 CRD/Publications and Presentations Section at 292-7141 for assistance.
8. The 59 CRD/Publications and Presentations Section will route the request form to clinical investigations, 502 ISG/JAC (Ethics Review) and Public Affairs (59 MDW/PA) for review and then forward you a final letter of approval or disapproval.
9. Once your manuscript, poster or presentation has been approved for a one-time public release, you may proceed with your publication or presentation submission activities, as stated on this form. Note: For each new release of medical research or technical information as a publication/presentation, a new 59 MDW Form 3039 must be submitted for review and approval.
10. If your manuscript is accepted for scientific publication, please contact the 59 CRD/Publications and Presentations Section at 292-7141. This information is reported to the 59 MDW/CC. All medical research or technical information publications/presentations must be reported to the Defense Technical Information Center (DITC). See 59 MDWI 41-108, Presentation and Publication of Medical and Technical Papers, for additional information.
11. The Joint Ethics Regulation (JER) DoD 5500.07-R, Standards of Conduct, provides standards of ethical conduct for all DoD personnel and their interactions with other non-DoD entities, organizations, societies, conferences, etc. Part of the Form 3039 review and approval process includes a legal ethics review to address any potential conflicts related to DoD personnel participating in non-DoD sponsored conferences, professional meetings, publication/presentation disclosures to domestic and foreign audiences, DoD personnel accepting non-DoD contributions, awards, honoraria, gifts, etc. The specific circumstances for your presentation will determine whether a legal review is necessary. If you (as the author) or your supervisor check "NO" in block 17 of the Form 3039, your research or technical documents will not be forwarded to the 502 ISG/JAC legal office for an ethics review. To assist you in making this decision about whether to request a legal review, the following examples are provided as a guideline:

For presentations before professional societies and like organizations, the 59 MDW Public Affairs Office (PAO) will provide the needed review to ensure proper disclaimers are included and the subject matter of the presentation does not create any cause for DoD concern.

If the sponsor of a conference or meeting is a DoD entity, an ethics review of your presentation is not required, since the DoD entity is responsible to obtain all approvals for the event.

If the sponsor of a conference or meeting is a non-DoD commercial entity or an entity seeking to do business with the government, then your presentation should have an ethics review.

If your travel is being paid for (in whole or in part) by a non-Federal entity (someone other than the government), a legal ethics review is needed. These requests for legal review should come through the 59 MDW Gifts and Grants Office to 502 ISG/JAC.

If you are receiving an honorarium or payment for speaking, a legal ethics review is required.

If you (as the author) or your supervisor check "YES" in block 17 of the Form 3039, your research or technical documents will be forwarded simultaneously to the 502 ISG/JAC legal office and PAO for review to help reduce turn-around time. If you have any questions regarding legal reviews, please contact the legal office at (210) 671-5795/3365, DSN 473.

NOTE: All abstracts, papers, posters, etc., should contain the following disclaimer statement:

NOTE: All abstracts, papers, posters, etc., should contain the following disclaimer statement for research involving humans:

"The voluntary, fully informed consent of the subjects used in this research was obtained as required by 32 CFR 219 and DODI 3216.02_AFI 40-402."

NOTE: All abstracts, papers, posters, etc., should contain the following disclaimer statement for research involving animals, as required by AFMAN 40-401_IP :

A Randomized Trial to Measure the Efficacy of Applying Task-Oriented Role Assignment to Improve Neonatal Resuscitation

Despite receiving Neonatal Resuscitation Program (NRP) training, providers still fail to comply with NRP guidelines during neonatal resuscitation. In an effort to address performance gaps we devised a teaching paradigm, called 'Task-Oriented Role Assignment', in which we have delegated a specific set of tasks to be performed within the traditional role assignments used during NRP. We hypothesize this method will improve communication and task delegation, thereby improving NRP performance.

Health care professionals taking the NRP course were randomized to either the control group, which received NRP only, or the study group, which received NRP and training with 'Task-Oriented Role Assignment'. This paradigm consists of 5 roles: team leader, cardiac chief, airway chief, line/medication chief, and recorder, with each role containing a subset of pre-determined tasks. The mnemonic, 'B CALMR', is incorporated into a visual aid to help learners remember the role assignments. Subjects participated in standardized NRP simulations which were video recorded and evaluated for task completion and team behaviors by two independent, blinded investigators. Participants rated their ability to perform NRP before and after receiving NRP training. A sample size of 72 is needed to detect a difference of 0.8 standard deviations.

We have enrolled 65 subjects (31 study, 34 control). Both groups rated themselves similarly in all categories of NRP performance except communication, where the control group had higher ratings both before (mean = 3.1control, 2.5study; $p = 0.045$) and after NRP (mean = 4.2control, 3.7study; $p = 0.020$). 11 simulations, performed by 12 participants have been evaluated. The control group had better team behavior scores in several components, such as leadership (mean = 4 control, 3 study; $p = 0.03$). However, both groups scored similarly in overall NRP task performance with mean scores of 73.7% and 74.5% for the control and study groups ($p = 0.74$, 95% CI -5.7-4.2). Evaluation of the recorded simulations is on-going.

Regardless of group assignment, participants perceived their ability to perform NRP to be greater after receiving any NRP education, as evident by higher post-course self-assessment scores. At this time, the use of Task-Oriented Role Assignment does not appear to improve team behavior or technical performance during neonatal resuscitation. However, our sample size is small, and more numbers are needed to draw conclusions.
