PREFACE

This report by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) satisfies the requirements of section 221(b) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985. The purpose of the report is to help the Congress adopt authorizing legislation that should be in place before it considers the 13 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 1999 (which begins October 1, 1998).

Ellen Hays of CBO's Special Studies Division prepared this report under the supervision of Arlene Holen and Marvin Phaup. The author gratefully acknowledges the assistance of analysts in CBO's Budget Analysis Division and the budget offices of various agencies, as well as numerous committee staff members.

Christian Spoor edited the report, and L. Rae Roy prepared it for publication.

OVERVIEW

The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 requires the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) to report to the Congress each year on unauthorized appropriations and expiring authorizations. Section 221(b) of that act added the following requirement to section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, as amended:

On or before January 15 of each year, the Director, after consultation with the appropriate committees of the House and the Senate, shall submit to the Congress a report listing (A) all programs and activities funded during the fiscal year ending September 30 of that calendar year for which authorizations for appropriations have not been enacted for that fiscal year, and (B) all programs and activities for which no authorizations for appropriations have been enacted for the fiscal year beginning October 1 of that calendar year.

The conference report on the Deficit Control Act states that the purpose of the requirement is "to help Congress use the early months of the year to adopt authorizing legislation that must be in place before the thirteen regular appropriation bills can be considered."

Authorization laws have two basic purposes. They establish, continue, or modify federal programs, and they are a prerequisite under House and Senate rules (and sometimes under statute) for the Congress to appropriate budget authority for programs.

Some authorization laws provide spending directly. In fact, well over half of federal spending now goes to programs for which the authorizing legislation itself creates budget authority. Such spending is referred to as direct, or mandatory, spending. It includes funding for most major entitlement programs. (Some entitlements are funded in annual appropriation acts, but the amounts provided are controlled by the authorization law that established the entitlement.) The authorization laws that provide direct spending are typically permanent, but some major direct spending programs, such as the Food Stamp program, require periodic renewal.

Discretionary spending, which is provided in the 13 appropriation acts, now makes up only about one-third of all federal expenditures. For discretionary spending, the role of the authorizing committees is to enact legislation that serves as the basis for operating a program and that provides guidance to the Appropriations Committees as to an appropriate level of funding for the program. That guidance typically is expressed in terms of an authorization of appropriations. Such authorizations are provided either as specific dollar amounts (definite authorizations) or "such sums as are necessary" (indefinite authorizations).

In addition, authorizations may be permanent and remain in effect until changed by the Congress, or they may cover only specific fiscal years. Authorizations that are limited in duration may be annual (pertaining to one fiscal year) or multiyear (pertaining to two, five, or any number of specific fiscal years). When such an authorization expires, the Congress may choose to extend the life of a program by passing legislation commonly referred to as a reauthorization. Unless the underlying law expressly prohibits it, the Congress may also extend a program simply by providing new appropriations. Appropriations made available for a program after its authorization has expired are called "unauthorized appropriations."

Longstanding rules of the House allow a point of order to be raised against an appropriation that is unauthorized. During initial consideration of a bill in the House (which by precedent originates appropriation bills), unauthorized appropriations are sometimes dropped from the bill. However, the House Committee on Rules typically grants waivers for unauthorized appropriations that are contained in a conference agreement. In the Senate, there is a more limited prohibition against considering unauthorized appropriations.

Both House and Senate rules require that when the Committees on Appropriations report a bill, they list in their respective committee reports any programs funded in the bill that lack an authorization. The information in the committee reports, however, differs somewhat from the information shown in this report. This report covers programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that either has expired or will expire. Unlike the lists shown in the Appropriations Committee reports, this report does not include programs for which the Congress has never provided authorizations of appropriations. For example, some Treasury Department programs have never received explicit authorizations of appropriations. They receive appropriations nonetheless because the authority to obligate and spend funds is considered "organic"—inherent in the underlying legislation or executive action that originally empowered the Treasury to perform particular functions.

As mentioned above, many laws establish programs with authorizations of discretionary appropriations that do not expire. Both the Appropriations Committee reports and this CBO report exclude programs with that type of authorization because its effect is permanent.

The substance of this report consists of two appendixes. Appendix A lists unauthorized appropriations—programs that have received an appropriation for fiscal year 1998 although their authorization has expired. Appendix B lists programs whose authorization will expire at the end of the fiscal year. For all appropriated programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that has expired or will expire, the appendixes show the number and name of the public law containing the last authorization, the last year the authorization was in effect, and the amount authorized in that year. If the authorization provided for "such sums as are necessary," the report shows the amount authorized as "indefinite."

This information is drawn from CBO's Legislative Classification System, a database reflecting all public laws enacted that contain temporary authorizations of appropriations—up to and including all laws enacted during the first session of the 105th Congress.

PROGRAMS FUNDED IN FISCAL YEAR 1998 WITH EXPIRED AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS

Appendix A lists programs and activities that have received a fiscal year 1998 appropriation even though their authorization has expired. If the applicable fiscal year 1998 appropriation act (or its legislative history) provides an explicit funding level for the program, that amount is shown under "Unauthorized 1998 Appropriation." If no explicit amount is provided (as when a small program is funded at an unidentified level in a large appropriation account), CBO contacts the agency's budget office to determine whether the program is still being funded and, if so, the amount allocated for it. If the allocated amount cannot be determined, the appendix notes that a specific dollar amount of unauthorized 1998 appropriations is not available.

The Congress appropriated more than $115.8 billion for fiscal year 1998 for programs and activities with expired authorizations (see Tables 1 and 2). The largest set of such programs is the housing and community development programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Those programs were last authorized for 1994; in 1998, they are funded at just under $23.7 billion.

Funding for foreign aid programs, the State Department, and the U.S. Information Agency that was last authorized by the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 and 1995 and the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 totals just under $13.8 billion in 1998. Over $13.6 billion of funding for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is considered unauthorized in 1998; NASA spending was last authorized for 1993.

Approximately $11.5 billion of the appropriation provided for the Department of Justice in 1998 is considered unauthorized, although a general provision in the applicable appropriation act extends the Department of Justice Appropriation Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1980 for another fiscal year. That $11.5 billion excludes programs authorized in the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 and the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996, among others.

The Higher Education Amendments of 1992 provided indefinite authorizations through 1997 for virtually all federal higher education grant programs. The General Education Provisions Act provides for an automatic one-year extension of all Department of Education programs, as noted in the appendixes. The Congress is expected to continue work on reauthorizing the higher education programs early in the next session.

AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS EXPIRING ON OR BEFORE SEPTEMBER 30, 1998

Appendix B lists programs and activities whose authorizations will expire on or before September 30, 1998. Unlike Appendix A, the list indicates (by public law) the amounts authorized to be appropriated in 1998 for expiring programs and activities, rather than the amounts actually appropriated in 1998.

More than $289.6 billion worth of authorizations—under the jurisdiction of 16 committees in each House—will expire at the end of this fiscal year (see Tables 3 and 4). Typically, authorizing committees attempt to reauthorize programs before they are set to expire.

The largest expiring authorization is the annual portion of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998. Another annual authorization set to expire is the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998.

The Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 authorized more than $26 billion in spending for federal highway, railroad, and mass transit programs in 1997. During its first session, the 105th Congress crafted a multiyear reauthorization of those programs, but the legislation was not passed before the end of the session. The Surface Transportation Extension Act of 1997 extends most of the programs temporarily through parts of 1998.

Other significant federal programs set to expire at the end of fiscal year 1998 include veterans' medical care and construction and leases of medical facilities authorized in the Veterans' Health Care Eligibility Reform Act of 1996, as well as most of the programs of the Federal Aviation Administration, which were last authorized in the Federal Aviation Reauthorization Act of 1996. In addition, most of the programs authorized in the Human Services Amendments of 1994 are set to expire at the end of 1998. They include Head Start, Community Services Block Grants, and various community food and nutrition programs.
