[Text] Part Three. Arab Tribes in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia (Comprises two chapters and detailed tables containing tribe branches)

Chapter One. Arab Tribe Genealogy¹

Arab Preservation of Their Genealogy--Difficulties in Matching Branches With Their Stems

In his book "Nihayat Al-Arab Fi Funun Al-Adab," Al-Nuwayri said, "The Arabs boasted the knowledge of their genealogy over non-Arabs (Al-'Ajam), because they were very careful to know their lineage, adhered to their noble descent, knew their peoples and races, identified their tribes eloquently by their poets and speakers, united with all their families and clans, tended toward their divisions, groups and clans, banished the intruders and spoke out vehemently."²

However, with the Arab carefulness to keep their genealogy, adhere to their descent and observe the sequence of their branches and divisions, it is quite difficult for any researcher to identify the origins of all Arab tribes in existence at the present time due to the loss of a considerable part of the writings of the ancestors about lineage and several links of the chain of ancestry during the weakness of Arab countries and differences among their heads and tribes in the Middle Ages. It is clear that during these periods, considerable tribal migration took place, with one tribe replacing another or conquering it and forcing it out of its territory and into oblivion. [132] Therefore, we did not attempt in this book to relate branches to their ancient origins except where correctness was absolutely verified; everything else was left to researchers and explorers. We confined ourselves to branches now existing, and we listed them by the names they are known by. It is noteworthy that we witnessed cases where branches of a single tribe descend from several distant origins; this arising, we presume, from the alliance of branches some time in the past at a time we cannot pinpoint.

Since the difficulties we came across in relating branches of present tribes to their ancient origins are common to all genealogists, and realizing that it is useful to know about them so that it may become clear how tribes came to be known by assumed names other than their original ones, and how branches came to be famous tribes, we deemed fit to list them hereinafter, to attain the benefit that we envisaged from writing this book.

First, the existence of lineage and the conversion of tribes into peoples, clans into tribes, and groups into clans.³

Second, the difficulty of identifying the correct lineage because of the distance of time and lack of writings.

Third, the possibility of a tribe becoming known by the name of a famous member.⁴

Fourth, the joining of individuals to a tribe other than their own by virtue of alliance or allegiance.⁵

Fifth, the intrusion of members of one tribe into another.

Sixth, the affiliation of strangers, such as slaves, to a certain tribe and their coming to be known by the tribe's name instead of their original names.

Seventh, the assuming of a new name by a certain tribe for one reason or another.

Eighth, the resemblance of tribal names despite the distance among their origins and the difference in their lineages.

Chapter Two. Terminology of Tribal Division

"Abu-al-Barakat al-Jawani" said, "The foundations upon which the Arabs built the entire structure of ancestry consist of ten categories."⁶

First Category: "Al-Jadhm," which is the origin relating either to 'Adnan or Qahtan.

Second Category: "Al-Jamahir," or the group.

Third Category: "Al-Shu'ub," or the peoples comprising the tribes.

Fourth Category: "Al-Qabilah," or the tribe "which is less than a people but comprises the clans. The Arabic term is derived from compatibility; that is, each part is compatible and equal in number with the other parts."⁷

Fifth Category: "Al-'Ama'ir," or clans, which are less than tribes. The term is plural of "'Imarah," which comprises groups.

Sixth Category: "Al-Butun," or the groups which comprise the divisions.

Seventh Category: "Al-Afkhadh," or the divisions. The term is plural of "Fakhdh," which is less than a group but comprises kinfolks.

Eighth Category: "Al-'Asha'ir," or kinfolks which connect to forefathers.

Ninth Category: "Al-Fasa'il," which consist of a man's extended family.

Tenth Category: "Al-Raht," which is a man's immediate family.

To illustrate the above: "Adnan" is "Jadhm," [origin]: Ma'add tribes are "Jumhur" [group], Nizar ibn Ma'add is Sha'b [134] [people], "Mudar" is a tribe, Khandaf is "'Imarah," Kinanah is Batn [group], Quraysh is Fakdh [division], Qusayy is 'Ashirah [clan], 'Abd Manaf is Fasilah [a man's relatives], and Banu Hashim are Raht [a man's family].⁹

The author of "Subh Al-A'sha" enumerated only six categories, taking after "Al-Mawardi" and other genealogists. Those categories are: (1) Al-Sha'b [the people], (2) Al-Qabilah [the tribe], (3) Al-'Imarah [group], (4) Al-Batn [one group], (5) Al-Fakhdh [division], and (6) Al-Fasilah [man's relatives].¹⁰

We followed in the steps of the author of "Subh Al-A'sha" except where "'Imarah" is concerned. We dropped it and confined the tribe classification to five categories listed hereinafter with its English equivalent for the sake of accuracy.

- (1) Al-Qabilah, such as Matir and 'Anzah = Tribe.
- (2) Al-Batn, such as Dana Wa'il, and Dana Muslim, of "'Anzah" tribe = Group.
- (3) Al-Fakhdh, such as Walad 'Ali, Walad Sulayman and Al-Hasanah of "'Anzah" groups = Division.

(4) Al-Fasilah, or Al-Badidah, is Al-'Ashirah, such as Al-Daghman and Al-Mir'ad = Clan.

(5) Al-Raht, or Al-'Ailah, such as Al-Sha'lan = Family.

To illustrate the above: Sha'lan Family is related to the Mir'ad clan of Al-Rawla division of Dana Muslim group of 'Anzah tribe.

It is noteworthy that we arranged and classified the tribes in alphabetical order and disregarded their classification in the order of their wealth, fame, competence and descent, for it is the custom of the Arabs to classify tribes in the above-mentioned order as follows.

First--tribes of [tribal] consciousness and solidarity, which are equal in competence, glory and descent.

Second--tribes of [tribal] consciousness and solidarity but which cannot date back their origins [135] to known Arab ancestors such as "Al-Zafir," "Al-Shararat," "Al-'Awazim" and "Al-Rashaydah".

Third--tribes whose descent is not recognized by the Arabs and therefore they do not marry into them. They are called "Salibah," such as [the tribes of] Salibah and Hutaym.

In Najd, there are further two tribal categories: the first is "Banu Khadir," who are said to be the descendants of slaves; and the other is "Al-Sunna'," who are looked upon in the cities as the Salibah are looked upon in the deserts.

We did not attempt to estimate the population of each tribe due to the difficulty inherent therein.

We relied, in the spelling of names, upon hearing and Arab tradition.

We often followed the same method in checking the pronunciation of names and vocalized them in the manner pronounced by the Arabs.

[138] Bal-Ahmar

They have their homes in Subh Valley, a few tens of miles north of Abha. The tribe is bounded by the Bal-Asmar tribe to the north, Shahran tribe to the east, Banu Malik to the south and Rab'a and Rufaydah to the west. The Bal-Ahmar tribe is divided into two divisions: urban and desert. Most important of the desert branches are Al Asla', Bal-Asmar and Banu Tha'labah.

Bal-Asmar

Bal-Asmar is located east of Mahayil, with the Al-Raysh tribe in between. It is bounded northward by Banu Shihr, eastward by Shahran, southward by Bal-Ahmar and westward by Al-Raysh. They are divided into two divisions: mountain people and valley people, who are more numerous than the others.

Ahl Bariq

This tribe consists of four divisions: Al-Humaydah, Al-Musa ibn 'Ali, Al-Isba' and Al-Jibali. Their homes are located 15 miles north of Mahayil. They stretch 20 miles north and south and 30 miles east and west, and are bounded by Banu Shihr to the east and north, Al-Raysh, Al-Durayb and Rabi'at Al-(Tihmah) to the south and Rabi'at al-Maqatirah to the west. Most of them live in the villages scattered in this region.

Bahr ibn Sukaynah

The homes of this tribe lie on the edges of the road extending between Mahayil and Al-Birk, several miles from Mahayil to the southwest, and a few tens of miles from Al-Birk. [139] To the north there is Al-Musa tribe, to the east Banu Thaw'ah and Rijal Alma', who are also found to the south; and to the west Banu Hilal. Members of this tribe claim they are related to Rijal Alma'.

Al-Buqum

Al-Buqum country stretches from Hadan mountain and its outskirts to Tarabah and Al-Khurma. Al-Buqums are originally from Al-Azd. Their number is by no means small, but part of them mingled with 'Utaybah and merged into it. The principal divisions of Al-Buqum are the following: Al-Mazariq, Al-Mawrikah, Al-Kalibah and Al-Rawajih.

Some of their urban dwellers live in the village of Al-Qasab. Of those that do are the families of Al Zahim, Al Suwayd and Al Ghadir.

Bila¹²

Bila is located south of Huwaytat al-Tiham. Its homes stretch eastward to Mihattat Dar Al-Hamra. It is originally from Al-Azd, and Bila together with Juhaynah are called Quda'ah. Bila has several branches, such as Al-Ma'aqilah, Al-Rumut, Al-Fawdhilah, Al-Zabbalah, Al-Shamat, Al-Kawiyyin,¹³ Al-Rubatah, Al-Wabisah, al-Huruf, al-Wuhshah, Al-'Iradhat¹⁴ and Al-Sahhamah.¹⁵ [140] The head of Bila is Ibn Rufadah who lives in Al-Wajh and its outskirts. The present Emir of Bila is Ibrahim Ibn Sulayman Pasha Ibn Mufadah.

Banu Tamim

Members of this tribe now live in Najd urban area and Shammar mountain. Most cities and villages in Najd have elements from Tamim. Because of its urbanization, the tribe lost the characteristics of divisions and clans, and it became difficult to divide it into groups as is the case with tribes which maintain their solidarity. However, it can be said that members of Tamim who live in Najd fall into three groups.

First--Hanzalah Ibn Malik Ibn Zayd Manat Ibn Tamim.

Second--Sa'd Ibn Zayd Manat Ibn Tamim.

Third--Of the group of 'Amr Ibn Tamim of Banu Hanzalah are: Al-Wuhabah, the family of Sheikh Muhammad Ibn 'Abd-al-Wahhab in Riyadh; Al Bassam in 'Unayzah and Al-Qudat, who are also found in 'Unayzah; Al Shabanah in Al-Majma'ah, Washi, Zalam¹⁶ and Jawa; Al Ma'yuf in Jalajil; Al Mnif in al-Hawtah; Al Maghamis in al-Khatamah; Al 'Abd-al-Karim in Haramah; Al-Kharasha, Al Jasir and Al Aba Husayn in Al-Washm and Ushayqir; Al Fayiz, Al Masnad and Al 'Umar in Wuthaythiyah; and Al-'Atiq and Al-Mus'ad in Al-Qasab.

In Al-Wahba are Al-Ma'adid, from whom descend Al Thani, the Emirs of Qatar.

In Banu Sa'd Ibn Zayd Manat are Al-'Anaqir in Tharmada. From those are Saykh 'Abdallah Al-'Anqari, [141] the qadi of Sudayr; Al Mu'ammam in Sadus; Al Abu 'Alyan and Al Hasan in Buraydah.

In Banu 'Amr Ibn Tamim are Al-Mazari' and Al-Nawasir. From Al-Mazari' there are Al Hammad in Al-Hawtah; Al-Murshid in Al-Hulwah; Al-'Awn in Al-Quway'. The Al Hammad constitutes the largest Tamim member living in Najd. They are two-part:

Al Murshid and Al Husayn. From Al-Mazari' also are Al al-Madi of Al-Rawdah; Al Fawzan, Al Faris and Al Qasim in Al-Rawdah; and Al Huwayshil in Namir, Al 'Atiyah and Al Assaf in Al-Majma'ah; Al Bakr in Riyadh; Al-Hilalat in 'Arqah and many others living in the villages of Najd.

From Al-Nawasir, there are Al Muqbil, who live in Udrama. The people of Al-Dakhilah are all from the Nawasir; Al Hasnan in Shaqra; and Al-Hamada in Al-Qasab.

Banu Thaw'ah

This is a Yemeni tribe living to the south of Mahayil and not very far from it. To the north live Al Musa and Al Raysh. To the east live Bal-Ahmar, to the south Al Mahya and Al-Harith of the Rabi'ah and Rufaydah tribes, and to the west live the tribe of Bahr ibn Sukaynah.

It is divided into two parts: nomadic and sedentary.

Its principal branches are Al Ghanyah, Al Qubayd, and Al Fudaylah.

Thamalah

This is a Hijazi tribe located south of Al-Ta'if and it is mentioned within the branches of Thaqif.

Thaqif

The descent of Thaqif is the subject of considerable controversy. Many [genealogists] relate it to Quda'ah of Himyar. [142] It is reliably believed that it descends from Hawazin from which comes Al-Shababin, a division of 'Utaybah. The homes of Thaqif are located in the Hijaz mountains between Mecca and al-Ta'if, or more accurately between there and the Hijaz mountains.

Contemporary scholars think that Thaqif is divided into the following groups:

1. Tuwayriq, which is divided into two parts: sedentary and nomadic. The sedentary part contains the following clans: Al-Ju'aydat, Al-Khasafin, Al-Zahhariyah, and Al-Fuddal. The nomads of Tuwayriq contain the following clans: Al-Rawsan, Al-Gharayin, Al-Tarakibah, Al-Kalbah, Al-'Abdah,¹⁷ Al-Zifirin¹⁸ and Al-Humran.
2. Al-Numur group is divided according to their locations into two parts: the people of Al-Hada and the people of Al-Muharram valley. The people of Al-Hada consist of four clans, which are: Al-Kummal, Al-Lumadah, Al-Ghuraba¹⁹ and Al-Bini, from which it is said that Al-Hajjaj ibn Yusuf comes. The people of Al-Muharram valley consist of the people of Al-Khadrah, Al-Mashayikh and the people of Al-Dar al-Baydah.
3. Thumala group is divided into eight divisions: people of Sukhayra, Al Muqbil, Al-Daba'in, Al-Sawa'idah, Al Zayd, al-Suwadah and Al-Tuwal. It is also said that Al-Mashayikh comes from Thumalah.

4. The Banu Salim group includes the clans of Al-'Ayashah, Al-'Asabi and Al-Munhif.²⁰

5. The 'Awf group lives in Liyyah valley and some [genealogists] relate them to Harb. They include the clan of Al-Ghunnam.

6. Sufyan group comprise two divisions: Banu 'Umar and Al Sharif. From Banu 'Umar came Al-'Ussan, Tamim, and al-Khudarah. Al Sharif includes many clans, most important of which is Al Sa'id which is divided into first, al-Harjali (who are said to be from Bakhr, who were the allies of Quraysh during the message [143] [of Islam] or Al-Jahadilah), Al Hasan, Al 'Ubayd, Al-Sawa'idah, Al Mansur; second, Al Hijjah who include Al-Khummas, Al-Bahadilah, Abu-al-Dam, Abu-al-Zahir; Al Mnif and Al 'Isa who consist of three families, Al-Husayn, Al-Hammud and Al Ghubayshah; and third, Al 'A'ishah who includes Al-Talhat, Al-Hajlah and Al-'Umar.²¹

7. Quraysh group²² includes sedentary and nomadic people. The sedentary are divided into Al-Husnan, Al-Dharawah, Al-Zinnan, and Al-Matrah. The nomads, or Al-Ghanim, are divided into Hawamilah, Al 'Ali, Al-Hayafin and Al-Ghashamirah. Quraysh also comprise Al-Qusran, Banu Sakhr and Al-Khurtah.

8. Hudhayl group. Look up these branches under the letter Ha [in the alphabetical listing].

9. Thaqif al-Yaman are close to Banu Malik at Al-Tur'ah, and they are divided into several divisions, most important among them are the divisions of 'Ans and Banu Yusuf. The first division includes Al-Jahila, Al-Nudaybi, Al Ya'li, Banu Muhammad, Al-Mughdah, Al-Ahlaf, Al-Humadah, who live in Al-Mulaysa, Al Mas'ud, Banu Yusuf, who include Al-Majradi, (al-'Usayli) and Al-Qurayhi.

Banu Dhabyan are related to Thaqif-Al-Yaman and they include three branches: Bakri, Buraydi and Dhabyani, although it is said that they descend from 'Abs and not Thaqif.

Al-Jahadilah

The homes of Al-Jahadilah stretch from the boundaries of Harb at Surum to Al-Layth on the sea shores and inland to Al-Shawk and Al-Sa'diyah mountains. They extend inward, to the south, [144] to the homes of Al Mahdi and Dhawu Barakat. Some of them live between Mecca and 'Arafat or between Mecca and Shaddad and Muharram valley. This tribe is the biggest of the small Hijazi tribes and the most powerful. It is said that its members are the descendants of the Banu Bakr who were allies of Quraysh during the lifetime of Prophet Muhammad.

The Jahadilah branches include Al-'Alyaniyah, Al-Shiniyah, Al-Harshiyah, Al-Jamshiyah, Al-Thu'baniyah, Hasnaniyah, and Jarshiyah or Qurashiyah.

Other branches include Al Manif, Al-Hayriyah, Al Fahm, and the most important branches are Al Sahm, Al-Madathir, Banu Bur, Al-Yam, and Al Zuhayn.

Al-Ja'afirah

This is one of the tribes which comprise the Ashraf [nobles or notables] of Hijaz who are divided into 21 tribes. Al-Ja'afirah's homes are located to the south of Jizan and to the northwest of Habiya. They constitute the people of Qawz Al-Ja'afirah, which is called the coast of 'Athar. The town of Qawz Al-Ja'afirah is 35 kilometers to the north of Jizan.

[145] Ju'dah

The houses of Banu Ju'dah are located between Al-Masarihah and Bani Mur, north of the city of Midi on the seashore near Wadi Ta'shar.

Bal-Hurrath

This is a small tribe living near the houses of Al-Masarihah between Jizan and Midi.

Juhaynah

The homes of Juhaynah extend along the coast south of the homes of Bila to south of Yanbu'. The tribes of Bila and Juhaynah are from the remnants of the Yemeni [tribe] Quda'ah as is now recognized.

Juhaynah is divided into two groups: the first is Malik; the second is Musa.

Bal-Harith

This tribe is divided into three parts. The first part, Banu al-Aws (pronounced Banyus by its own people), includes Al-Ghawiyah, Al-'Abdallah, Al-'Ulathah, Al-Dha'ah, Al-Shumasah, Mat'an, Banu Hayyah, Al-Balahidah, Al-'Azawin, [147] Al-Shawahitah, Al-Sulaykhat, Al-Madhahibah, Al-Jayashah, Al-Shaddadin.

The second part, Banu Shu'ayth, includes Al-Jabir and Al-'Anatirah.

The third part, Al Musa, includes Al-Musaylat, Al-Jaharin, Dhawu Hunaytam, Dhawu Hattab, Husaykah, Al-Hanshah, Dhawu Karim and Al-Majayishah.

Some people count Al-Shalawah within Bal-Harith, others count the above-mentioned branches within Al-Shalawah.

Harb

Most of Harb tribe comes from the 'Adnani Arabs. We say "most" because Harb does not descend from one ancestry; it is a combination of alliances comprising many elements, each with a different kinship.³⁶

This powerful tribe is located in Najd and Al-Hijaz. In Al-Hijaz, its houses extend south of Yanbu' to Al-Qunfudhah along the coast, and around the mountainous area extending from Medina to Mecca, to the neighborhood of Abanin mountain, then east into Najd near Al-Rumma valley. Its southern border, Darb Al-Hajj, extends from Buraydah to Mecca.

A large portion of the tribe's kinfolks and divisions are found in Al-Hijaz, while another portion is found in Najd. However, we did not divide the tribe into Najdi Harb and Hijazi Harb; instead we combined its divisions and kinfolks and mentioned the locations of the tribe whether they are in Najd or Al-Hijaz.

[148] Harb tribe can be divided into six³⁷ groups as follows: first group, Banu 'Ali; second group, Al-Wuhub; third group, Al-Furadah; fourth group, Banu Salim; fifth group, Banu 'Amr; sixth group, Masruh.

The first group of the Harb tribe, Banu 'Ali, has some of the divisions of the group living in Najd and others living in Al-Hijaz. Those living in Najd are [149] Al-Karashif, Al-Kalahah, Walad Marir, Al-Qurun, Al-Madarin, and Al Nami.

Those living in Al-Hijaz (near Medina) are under the leadership of Ibn Ruwaythi and Ibn Muslat, and they are Al-Badarin, Khafarah and Al-Furadah.

The second group of Harb is Al-Wuhub, who all live in Najd. This group includes the following kinfolks: Al-Mudaykh, Al-'Uwayd, Al-Khulasah, Al-Saradhin and Al-Madhan.

The third group of Harb, Al-Furadah, belongs to the Najdi part of Harb, with a small portion living near Medina and to the east of it. Its most important kinfolks are Al-Hammad, Al-Haddan, Al-Furayd, Al-Nawman, Al-Dawamik, and Al-Khalifah. [150]

Due to the weakness of Al-Sulbah, it seeks protection from other well-known tribes for as long as it pays for this purpose.

The protecting tribes assign some of their people to protect Al-Sulbah and regain their rights from encroachers and aggressors. The protector of Al-Sulbah is called "Akhu" [brother]. Following are Al-Sulbah's brothers: Ibn Kuwaykib; Abu Jinfah; Ibn Hasan, from Al-Daghman; Ibn Badri, from Al-Ashaji'ah; Ibn Milhaq, from Al-Sawalihah; Al-Kharbutli, from Al-'Abadilah; Ibn Shann, from Wild 'Ali; [176] Ibn Muhayni, from Al-Dahamishah; Ibn Jalal, from Al-Suqur; Ibn Najin, from Al-Fad'an; Ibn Dlayq, from Al-Zafir; Abu Tayih, from Al-Huwaytat; Ibn Khayal, from Al-'Azzam; Ibn Sayid, from Wild Sulayman; Ibn Muhammad, from Banu 'Atiyah; Ibn Zabn, from Banu Sakhr.

'Ilwah is divided into three groups: (1) Al-Mwahah, Al-Jiblan and Dhawu 'Awn. Al-Mwahah is divided into the following divisions: Al-Dimshan, Al-Rakhman, Al-Bara'isah, Al-Khawatirah and Al-Sa'abin. [202] Al-Jiblan is divided into the following divisions: Al-'Uqaymat, Al-Maqalidah, Al-A'inah, and Al-'Araqibah. (3) Dhawu 'Awn is divided into these divisions: Al-Sahbah, Al-Mala'ibah, Al-Mtayrat and Al-Hullaf, who are allied with Al-'Usbah and live among Brayh and are called Banu 'Abdallah.

Brayh is divided into two groups--Wassamat-al-Hilal and Wasil. Wassamat-al-Hilal is divided into Al-Si'ran, Al-Sa'bah and Maymun. Al-Si'ran is divided

Al Murrah

One of the oldest Arab tribes, with the most genuine and purist lineage but also one of the strongest and most barbaric and far removed from civilization. Its dwellings extend south of the road leading from Al-Hasa and Riyadh to Al-Kharj and Al-'Aqir up to the oases of Jafura and Jabrin and to the middle of Rub' al-Khali.

This tribe has three major divisions, which are Shabib (or Bishr), Ali Ibn Murrah, and Jabir. [203]

The first division (Bishr) includes the following kinfolks: Al-'Adhbah, Buhayh, Burayd, Dawi, Fuhaydah, Charfran, Hadi, Al Hasanah, Juhaysh, Shabib, Al Zuqaymah, Al Shabib, and Dimnan (from Ajsham).

The second division includes the kinfolks of Al-Ghayathin, Al-Jarabi'ah and Al Najm.

The third division includes Al-Ghadban and Ahl Na'am.

H.H. Prince 'Abdallah ibn 'Abd-al-Rahman has kindly mentioned the following divisions for the Al Murrah. The tribe is divided into two groups 'Ali and Shabib, followed in Jasham by: Al Dimnan, Al-Hutaylah and Al-Hindi. [204] Al 'Ali Ibn Murrah are divided into two groups--Al-Ghayathin and Al-Jarabi'ah. Al-Shabib are divided into two groups--Al Sa'id and Al Ghifran. Al Sa'id are divided into two groups--Al Bishr and Al Jabir. Al Bishr are divided into three groups: Al Fadil, Al Yahya and Al Brayd. Al Fadil are divided into two groups: Al Fuhaydah and Al 'Adhbah.

Mughayd

A strong tribe living in Abha and its surroundings. It is bounded by the tribes of 'Alkam-Al-Hawl and Banu Malik to the north, Shahran to the east, some of Shahran and Rabi'at Al-Yaman to the south, and Rijal Al-Ma' to the west.

The tribe is divided into seven divisions: Al Yazid, of whom come Al Mifrih, Al Bu-Sarrah and Awlad-al-Amir⁸⁰; Al Najih; Al Wazi'; [205] Umm-al-Sharaf; Al Umm-al-Juray'at; Umm Wadi Malj; and Al Wayman.

Al-Manasir

This tribe lives in Al-Rub' Al-Khali to the northeast of Al Murrah. Part of Al-Manasir lives in Oman and another part lives in Qatar. They are more flexible than Al Murrah and more receptive to civilization.

Little is known about Al-Manasir, relative to the other tribes. It is said that its most important division is Abu Mundhir, whose Shaykh is Rashid Ibn Mani'. This division includes the following kinfolks: Al-Ka'abirah, Al Mani', Al-Marashid, Al-Matawi'ah, and Al-Madahimah.

The division of Al Abu Rahman, whose Shaykh is Sa'id Ibn Suwayd includes the following kinfolks: Al Abu Khayl, Al Salimin, Al Tararifah, Al Wabran,⁸¹ and Al-Mahayilah. [206]

The division of Al Bal-Sha'r, whose Shaykh is Ghanim Ibn Jaryu, includes the following kinfolks: Ghuwaynim, Al-Shudud, and Tuwaybit.

Al-Munjihah⁸²

This tribe lives along the sea coast between Al-Birk and Al-Shaqiq. It is bounded to the north by Banu Hilal, to the east by Rijal Al-Ma', and to the south by the tribes of Mikhlaf Al-Yaman.

Its most important kinfolks are Al Umm-Khurayq, Al-'Abdiyah, Al Zayd, Al Umm Hawish, Al Siryah, Al-Shahbi, and Walad Islam.

Al Musa⁸³

The tribe possesses the village of Mahayil. Most of it is sedentary except the two divisions of Umm-Jaryan and Banu Yazid. It is bounded to the north by Al Al-Durayb and Al-Rish, to the east by Al-Rish [207] and Banu Thawab, to the south by Thawab and Bahr Ibn Sukaynah, and to the west by Banu Hilal.

The tribe has two branches which seceded from it; they are Banu Shu'ayb (or Daghb) and Al-Sawalihah.

Some of its groups are in Umm Shahari, Al 'Uqayl, Al'Amir, Al Sha'r, Al Dab', Al Sharifah, Al-Qurun, and Hamala.

Najran

Najran is a vast territory located between Najd, Yemen and 'Asir. It has several tribes of which we know very little. We could not verify the details of its branches of clans. We have noted some information about the tribe of Yam, which is the biggest tribe of Najran, in the appropriate place.

Al-Nuju'

This tribe lives in Mikhlaf Al-Yaman, between Sabya and Al-Darb. Some of its divisions are Banu Muhammad (which is different from the other Banu Muhammad), Al Hajawi and Banu Mifrih. [208]

Banu Nashshar

This tribe lives near Waza'at. Its most important village is Suq Banu Nashshar.

Al-Numur

See Thaqif

Banu Hajir

This is a Qahtani tribe, therefore we would be closer to accuracy if we considered it (together with Al-'Ujman) a group of Qahtan. The homes of Banu Hajir are located south of Al-'Ujman up to Qatar. The ruler of Banu Hajir is Ibn Sha'lan.

The most important divisions of Banu Hajir are Al-Mukhdabah, which includes the following kinfolks: Dubaysah, Fuhayd, Hamra (some of them live in Qatar). Al Sultan, Husayn, Jararihah, Khayarin, Madafirah, Munnu', [209] Mazahimah, Qumazah, Al Zayd, Zahanit, Shaba'in, Shahwan, Shar'an, and Sharahin.

Al Muhammad, whose ruler is Ibn Tafrah, includes the following kinfolks: 'Amirah, Falahah, Qadadat, Al-Kilbah, Masarir, Al-Quruf, Sha'amil, Samahin, Tuyya', and Al Jiddi.

Some of Banu Hajir are sedentary people living in the following places: Al-Wusaylah, in Al-Aflaj; Huraymilah; and Thadiq.

Hutaym

This tribe which lives between north Najd and north Al-Hijaz is not related to any Arab group. Therefore it is looked upon like Al-Sulbah. Some of its kinfolks are Al-Dhibah, Al-Jalidah, Al Barrak, Al-Khulaywiyah, Al-Dawamish and Al-Fajawin. [210]

Hudhayl

One of the important tribes of Al-Hijaz. It is divided into two parts: a northern part and a southern part. The houses of the first are located in the outskirts of Mecca, to the east and south, and particularly in the outskirts of Mecca and Al-Ta'if, near Barad mountain and the famous mountain of Dhaka.

The first part, which is northern Hudhayl consists of seven kinfolks as follows: Al-Matarifah, in Wadi Fatimah; Al Masa'id, in Al-Sayl; Al-Sawahir, in Al-Sayl; Lihyan, to the east of Mecca; 'Amr of 'Amir, to the right of Mecca-Jiddah road, Al-Janabir, in Al-Kurr mountain, where they are called by the names of the places they live in, such as: Al-Sa'ayid, Al-Hasasinah, Al-Kabakibah, and Al-Majaris.

The second part, which is Hudhayl Al-Yaman, consists of the following parts:

1. Al-Nadawiyah, some comprises three branches--Al-Maraziq, Al-Jiyasah, and Al-Jumlah.

2. Da'd, which includes three branches--Al-Hasnan, Al Ya'la and Al-Zabban.

3. Al-Sarawinah, which includes three branches--Al Zahwan, Al 'Alya and Al-Majarish.

4. Al-'Ahilah.

5. Jamil, which includes several parts and branches, important among which are Al-Tuluh, Al-Hasasinah, Al-'Abdah, and Al-Miswidah. [211]

Of Al-Tuluh come Al Khalid, Al Salih. Al Khalid has the branches of Al Rashid and Al 'Attaf; and Al Salih branches out to Al-Talahat, which includes Al Rashid-Al Munif, Al A'sab, Al Manna', which includes Al-Baqlah, Al Humayd, and Al Zaydan.

Al-Miswidah has the branches of Banu Iyas, Al-Sawalimah, Al Mahmud, Al-Jawabirah, Al Zayd, Al-Farah and Ka'b.

Al-Farah includes Al Mihsin, Al Kamil, Al-Da'jan, and Al Sari.

Al Zayd includes the branches of Al-Qin'an and Al-Mahamid, and Al-Jawabirah includes the branches of Al Hasan, Al Hamdan and Al 'Ali. Al-Sawalimah includes Al-Buzdah and Al Farah.

Hilal

The dwellings of Banu Hilal extend from the borders of Rabi-at Al-Tiham, Ahl Hali and Mahayil to the neighborhood of Al-Birk on the sea coast. They are divided into several parts, most important among which are Ahl Al-Birk, Al-Akhrash, Al Mishir, Al UmmJum'ah.

Yam

One of the important tribes in Najran and Al-Jawf. What information we have about this tribe, its social system and its branches and clans, is very little. The tribe is still in its barbaric state. Often when Yam is mentioned in Najd [212] the reference is made to Al-'Ujman and Al Murrah.

However, to the south and southwest, between Najd, 'Asir and Al-Yaman, there are several branches of Yam of which we were able to identify the following: (1) Jsham, which includes several branches, most important among which are Al Khamis, Al Sulayman, Rajlan, Al Hasan, Al Bal-Harith, Al Harbatah, Al Qusur, Al Mustanir, Al Bil-Ghurban, Al Hutaylah, and Al Sa'b. (2) Al Fatimah, which has several branches, important among which are Al Salim, Badr, Al Mutlaq, Al Al-Qarn, Ahl Haliq, Al-Ju'ah, Hadadah, Hirah, Al Sani', Abu 'Ubar, 'Akkam, Al-'Awkalah, Al Jayban and Al-Afhad. (3) Al Mawajid, with several branches, important among which are Al-Nasib, Al Qanaf, Al Maratah, Dhawu Shuqmah, Dhawu Wada'ah and Ahl Salwah.

Banu Ya'la

A small sedentary people living among the tribes of Banu Zayd and Awwal Al-'Alawinah of Ahl Hali and Bil'Ayr.

1. Despite the effort the author exerted in tracing and searching, he stumbled into many illusions which cannot be enumerated here. He interchanged among tribe branches, related branches to incorrect origins, which require more clarification than could be stated here. We confine ourselves only to correcting pronunciation of some names.

21. Al-Talhat, Al Hajla and Al-'Umar come from Hudhayl, but were mistakenly related to Thaqif because they live in Shafa Banu Sufyan.

22. This group is called Quraysh, but it is not from the noble Qurayshis [Ashraf], it is just a similarity between the two names. [In other versions] it comes from Quraysh. Quraysh had relations with Thaqif and had been its ally since before Islam. The relationship is still strong between the two tribes. For details, see AL-'ARAB magazine, p 419, second paragraph.

36. The proverbial mixture of Harb is exemplified by the adage "if you have a mixed ancestry you are a Harb." The truth is that Harb is of Qahtani origin. For details refer to "Al-Iklil" by Al-Hamadani, part 1, page 299 on.
37. Due to the reputed knowledge of H. H. Prince 'Abdallah Ibn 'Abd-al-Rahman of Arab history and tribe genealogy, I asked him to review this part of the book. He kindly offered valuable remarks and information. With regard to Harb he said: Harb is divided into two groups--Banu Masruh and Banu Salim.

Masruh is divided into five divisions: Banu 'Ali, Banu 'Amr, Banu Al-Safar, 'Awf, Mukhlif. Banu 'Ali is divided into two kinfolks: Al-Jubur, which includes Al-Farm and Walad Marir. Al-Jubur is divided into clans: Al-Karashif, Al-Lahamiq, Al-Dawaghirah, Al-Masharidah, Al-Kalkhah, Al-Katmad, and Al-Fuqu'.

Walad Marir comprise the clans: Al-Dahim, Al-Torafah, and Al-'Abdah.

Banu 'Amr are divided into five kinfolks: Al-'Utur, Al-Sha'b, Al-Baydhan, Al-Fayadin and Al-Badarin.

Al-'Utur are divided into clans of Al-Dhawiyah, Al-Rub'ah, Al-Tarmasan, Al-Hawamizah, Al-Mawa'izah.

Banu Al-Safar are divided into three kinfolks: Al-Wuhub, Al-Furadah and Al-Fuhadah.

Banu Salim include the divisions of Muzaynah, Walad 'Ala, Walad Majid, and Walad Salim.

Muzaynah are also divided into the kinfolks of Al Mas'ud, Al 'Urayman, Al-Hadnan, Al-Mashariyah, and Al-Hawamilah.

Walad 'Ala are divided into the kinfolks of Al-Jamala, Al-Ghurban and Al-Hananiyah.

Walad Muhammad are divided into two kinfolks: Al-Ahamidah and Al-Zughaybat.

38. There are kinfolks of Zubayd living in Iraq, east of Al-Hillah.
39. Al-Huwaytat claim that they are from Al-Ashraf (descendants of Prophet Muhammad), but this is not established. Some of them claim they are the remnants of Al-Anbat and the ancient people of Thamud and Madyan.
40. Ibn Jazi is no longer the paramount Shaykh of all Huwaytat. He was challenged by 'Awdah Abu-Tayih whose people have become no less powerful than Ibn Jazi.
41. The Sheikhdome belongs to this kinfolk.
42. There is no tribe by this name which was agreed upon since the four tribes mentioned are considered one part.
43. From the remnants of the famous Kinanah of Egypt. This and Quraysh are from the same origin. It appears that part of this tribe emigrated to Sudan where their traces still exist to this day in Kurdufan. The traces of another part are found in Marrakech.
44. Prince 'Abdallah ibn 'Abd-al-Rahman made these remarks regarding Banu Khalid: Banu Khalid are divided into groups, each related to a tribe. Al Hamid, where the seat of leadership is, includes Al-'Uray'ir and Tablah. Al-Qurashah are related to 'Ubaydah. Al-Mahashir are related to Banu Hajar. Al-'Umur are related to Al-Dawasir.

As for Al-Jubur, they are related to Miqdam, Bashutat, Al-'Amayir and Al-Subayh. They are known as Ibn Mushrif said: "Forget not Al-Khalidi, for they are several tribes from Aqil Ibn 'Amir."

45. They trace back their origin to Hajar.

46. We grouped under the name Rabi'ah all tribes known by that name notwithstanding the differences in their origins. The most important parts of Rabi'ah are Rabi'at al-Tiham and Rabi'at Warfaydah, who has the same origin although the latter is a branch of 'Asir tribe, which in turn is divided into four parts mentioned as a group under 'Asir and individually where appropriate.
47. There are four kinfolks in Al-Su'abah: Al-Jammalin, Al 'Ali; Al-Madariyah; and Al 'Azzah. There are also four kinfolks in Al-Khudran: Al-Samlah; Al-Jubur; Al-Nabtah; and Al-'Arinat.
48. See Bal-Harith.
49. We counted this in Bal-Harith.
50. This is different from Al-Ghawtah of Damascus.
51. From which come Al-Rashid rulers of Ha'il and Al Ibn 'Ali, who ruled Ha'il before Al-Rashid.
52. Refer to Al-Muhammarah treaty between Najd and Iraq. With them live the tribes of Al-Jayarin, Al-'Awazim, Al-Rasha'idah, Al-Salilat and Al-Sikwad.
53. Dana means offspring. The word is used in Najd to indicate expectant mothers.
54. Some of Al-Rula live in Najd and some live in Syria (Al-Rawlah).
55. They live in the same places as Al-Rula.

61. They live in Najd where they have a settlement.
62. In Syria.
63. In western Najd and north Al-Hijaz.
64. Al-Mawahib are small in number. Of them are Al-Sarrahin, who are scattered between Al-Harratayn and Wadi al-Sirhan. They are mentioned under Bila.
65. Pronounded Barqa.

66. Some historians say that Banu 'Atiyah are the origin of Al-Huwaytat and Al-Tarrabin (in Palestine) and other tribes. Whether this is true or not, the fact remains that Banu 'Atiyah and Al-Huwaytat are on the best of terms, with each party moving freely and indisputably in the territory of the other party.
67. It is said that they are from Ghatfan.
68. See 'Asir, Rabi'ah, Rufaydah, Malik and Mfid.
69. Fahm is a name given to two tribes: Fahm of Zahran, and Qahtan and Fahm of Qays 'Aylan. The two tribes are of distant linkage to Quraysh.
70. To the southeast of Abha.
71. It is located 20 miles away from Sabya up to Mikhlaf Al-Yaman.
