SUMMARY of CHANGE

AR 5-22

The Army Proponent System

This regulation--

- o Establishes the Army Proponent System.
- o Defines categories of proponents (para 4).
- o Prescribes responsibilities for the Army Proponent System at all levels of leadership (para 5).
- o Discusses relationships between the various proponents (paras 7 and 8).

Management

The Army Proponent System

By Order of the Secretary of the Army:

JOHN A. WICKHAM, JR.
General, United States Army
Chief of Staff

Official:

R. L. DILWORTH
Brigadier General, United States Army
The Adjutant General

History. This UPDATE printing publishes a new Army regulation that is effective 1 November 1986. This publication has been reorganized to make it compatible with the Army electronic publishing database. No content has been changed.

Summary. This regulation, which establishes the Army Proponent System, complements AR 600-3. It describes the Army Proponent System's policy, responsibilities, and relationships, and the procedures necessary to execute the continuous Army force modernization effort.

Applicability. This regulation applies to the Active Army, the Army National Guard (ARNG), and the U.S. Army Reserve (USAR).

Impact on New Manning System. This regulation does not contain information that affects the New Manning System.

Internal control systems. This regulation is not subject to the requirements of AR 11-2. It does not contain internal control provisions.

Supplementation. Supplementation of this regulation and establishment of forms other than DA forms are prohibited without prior approval from HQDA (DAMO-FDQ), WASH DC 20310-0460.

Interim changes. Interim changes to this regulation are not official unless they are authenticated by The Adjutant General. Users will destroy interim changes on their expiration dates unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

Suggested Improvements. The proponent agency of this regulation is the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Plans. Users are invited to send comments and suggested improvements on DA Form 2028 (Recommended Changes to Publications and Blank Forms) directly to HQDA (DAMO-FDQ), WASH DC 20310-0460.

Distribution. Distribution of this issue has been made in accordance with DA Form 12-9A-R requirements for 5-series publications. The number of copies distributed to a given subscriber is the number of copies requested in Blocks 7 and 8 of the subscriber's DA Form 12-9A-R. AR 5-22 distribution is C, D for Active Army, C for ARNG and USAR.

Glossary

RESERVED

1. Purpose

This regulation establishes policy, responsibilities and procedures for the Army Proponent System.

2. References

Required and related publications are listed in appendix A.

3. Explanation of abbreviations and terms

Abbreviations and special terms used in this regulation are explained in the glossary.

4. Categories of proponents

Categories of proponents are as follows:

a. Branch proponent. The branch proponent is the commandant or director of the respective school or institution that develops concepts, doctrine, tactics, techniques, procedures, organization designs, materiel requirements, training programs, training support requirements, manpower requirements (except as provided in AR 600-3), education requirements, and related matters for a branch in the Army. Branch proponents are listed in table 1.

b. Specified proponent. The specified proponent is the commander or chief of any agency responsible for a designated area that does not fall within the purview of a branch proponent. Specified proponents will have the same responsibilities as branch proponents. Specified proponents are listed in table 2.

c. Functional proponent. The functional proponent is the commander or chief of an organization or staff element that is the operative agency charged with the accomplishment of a particular function(s). Functional proponents are listed in table 3.

d. Personnel proponent. The personnel proponent is the commander or chief of an organization assigned primary responsibility for providing recommendations to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel for career fields per AR 600-3. Personnel proponents and the career fields for which they are responsible are listed in AR 600-3.

5. Responsibilities

a. The Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Plans will—

- (1) Designate Army branch, specified, and functional proponents.
- (2) Promulgate policy and allocate resources for the Army Proponent System.
- (3) Manage the Army Proponent System for the Army.
- (4) Arbitrate issues affecting two or more proponents of different major Army commands (MACOMs) or Army Staff agencies.

b. The Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel (DCSPER) will designate Army personnel proponents per AR 600-3.

c. The Commanding General, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command (CG, TRADOC) will—

- (1) Assign specific responsibilities to branch proponents and specified proponents within TRADOC.
- (2) Resolve issues affecting two or more proponents within TRADOC.
- (3) Coordinate directly with proponents outside TRADOC.

d. Commanders who are designated branch and specified proponents as shown in tables 1 and 2 will—

- (1) Develop and document concepts, doctrine, tactics, techniques, procedures, organization designs, materiel requirements, training programs, training support requirements, and manpower requirements (except as provided in AR 600-3).

- (2) Coordinate proponent initiatives with user units.

e. Commanders or other designated functional proponents as shown in table 3 will—

- (1) Assess new initiatives developed by branch and specified proponents and provide feedback to these proponents.

- (2) Provide support of formal evaluation for new initiatives developed by branch and specified proponents and provide feedback on their effectiveness.

- (3) Establish policy and procedures to effect functional proponent activities.

f. Commanders or other designated personnel proponents will, per AR 600-3—

- (1) Gather and evaluate manpower and personnel data.

- (2) Identify issues and initiatives.

- (3) Formulate alternatives.

- (4) Coordinate actions.

- (5) Recommend policy changes to the DCSPER.

- (6) Advise and assist the U.S. Army Military Personnel Center and Reserve Component personnel.

6. Exceptions

This regulation will not modify the responsibilities of Headquarters, Department of the Army (HQDA) for providing the resources to support the total Army. HQDA will continue to approve, establish priorities for, and program actions involving resources allocation.

7. Relationships between branch proponents and personnel proponents

When branch proponents differ from personnel proponents, branch proponents are responsible to their respective branch chiefs. Exceptions are as follows:

a. The Academy of Health Sciences is responsible to The Surgeon General.

b. In the case of the Chaplains Branch, the Commanding General, U.S. Army Chaplain Center and School develops and coordinates with TRADOC the products listed in paragraph 5d for the Chief of Chaplains. In turn, the Chief of Chaplains approves doctrinal and training literature, training, policies pertaining to chaplain ministrations and denominational requirements, professional qualifications, personnel policy, and peculiar equipment requirements. The Chief of Chaplains further certifies for approval chaplain force structure requirements.

c. In the case of the Judge Advocate General's Corps (JAGC), the Commandant, the Judge Advocate General's School, U.S. Army, develops and coordinates with TRADOC the products listed in paragraph 5d(1) for The Judge Advocate General (TJAG). In turn, TJAG approves doctrinal and training literature, training, policies pertaining to the JAGC professional qualifications, personnel policy, and peculiar equipment requirements. TJAG further certifies for approval the JAGC table of organization and equipment force structure requirements.

8. Relationships between functional proponents and other proponents

a. Functional proponents perform tasks or missions that affect the day-to-day operation of the Army. As users of the products developed by the other proponents, functional proponents must provide feedback on the utility of these products, and provide support of formal evaluation of these products by the combat developer.

b. The functional proponents will further enhance the development process by offering their expertise early to appropriate branch, specified, or other functional proponents. In this manner, new technologies and other innovations that would add to the effectiveness or efficiency of current designs can be efficiently adopted.

c. It is essential that an unencumbered communication channel be established between the functional proponent and other proponents.

9. Procedures

Additional procedures describing proponent responsibilities will be established as necessary in supporting regulations.

Section II Terms

Branch

A division of the Army. The branches of the Army are classified as basic and special branches. These branches are further divided into arms and Services based on the normal functions and roles performed by the soldiers assigned to them. Certain branches are both an arm and a Service. Combined arms are those branches whose members are primarily concerned with combat and combat support. Services are those branches whose members are concerned with providing combat service support to the Army. (See AR 10-6 for more information on branches.)

Branch Chief

Head of the branch. The respective branch school commandant or director is the assigned branch chief for a basic branch in the Army. In the case of special branches, the designated special branch chiefs are: Chief of Chaplains for Chaplains; Chief, Medical Corps Affairs, for the Medical Corps; Chief, Medical Service Corps, for the Medical Service Corps; Chief of Army Nurse Corps, for the Army Nurse Corps; Chief, Veterinary Corps, for the Veterinary Corps; Chief, Dental Corps, for the Dental Corps; Chief, Army Medical Specialist Corps, for the Army Medical Specialist Corps; and The Judge Advocate General for the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

Category

A specifically defined division in a system of classification. For the purpose of this regulation, category depicts the types of proponents.

Career field

Commissioned officer branch and functional area codes, warrant officer military occupational specialties, and enlisted career management fields.

Function

Assigned activity or duty.

Functional area

Nonaccession officer career fields other than arm or Service.

Proponent

Army organization or staff element that has primary responsibility for materiel or subject matter expertise in its area of interest or charged with accomplishment of one or more functions.
